

Women in Trades

FREE Workshop Preparing Women for High Paying Construction Careers

What?

The Women in Trades Workshop's purpose is to inform central valley high school and college-age women about potential construction and building trades employment opportunities. Students will tour the electrician training center, get interactive opportunities to learn about multiple building trades and hear from veteran tradeswomen who will share their knowledge and experience.

Why?

The construction industry's urgent need for skilled workers creates opportunities for women to enter and advance in the field. Jobs in the building trades offer the chance to perform challenging work with high wages.

College is not for everyone! For many, apprenticeship may be the answer.

- Pays you a salary while you work and receive on-the-job training.
- Allows you to learn job, craft or trade skills without out-of-pocket tuition costs.
- Leads to a certificate from the State of California and a career upon completion of the program.

Who? If you...

- Believe you should earn as much as a man
- Like working outdoors and getting up early
- Enjoy working with your hands
- Feel pride when you look at a project you've completed
- Have problem-solving skills and the ability to work with a team
- Want a high paying career with benefits and advancement opportunities

BRING YOUR STUDENTS!
November 14, 2017

When and Where?

November 14 • 9:30 A.M. – 1:30 P.M.

Lunch is Provided

NECA/IBEW Electrical Training Center
3921 N. Sillect
Bakersfield, California 93308

Contact: Dave Teasdale (661) 336-5058
dteasdal@kccd.edu

Energy Construction & Utilities
California Community Colleges
Workforce & Economic Development

