Opportunity to Address the Academic Senate

a. Technology at BC
Todd Coston, BC Information Services Director and Gary Moser, District Chief Information Officer(CIO) introduced themselves and asked the Senate to share their vision for the campus instructional technology needs.

Holmes recommended a District-wide technology committee. Moser was interested in pursuing further discussion on this topic, what this type of committee should look like, and what it will accomplish.

Moser suggested that he would like a system that is more transparent that would provide more information on how we prioritize, identify where projects are in the cuecue and everyone should have access to this system.
The Senate shared concerns about the direction of our technology in regards to the paperless system and this effect on students who may not be “tech savvy”. Moser suggested that we may need to look into a “Hub type” of location that would provide training for key technical skills (college survival skills).

Members of the Senate questioned if Canvas is now in effect. Coston shared that Canvas was tested, approved through the process and is now being implemented. Coston added that it is a statewide initiative.

Gary Moser can be reached via email: gary.moser@kccd.edu

b. Campus Safety
Chief Counts, Director of Public Safety and Joe Grubs, Risk Assessment Manager introduced themselves and presented an overview of the campus safety plan:

Grubbs shared his idea of developing a plan for district campuses; however, his focus at this time is training faculty/staff with the goal to have every single person trained.

Grubbs recognized that the campus is on the right track with the Incident Command Center in place and initiatives like the Students of Concern Committee.

The Senate questioned if there have been any discussions regarding BC Officers carrying a stun gun. Grubbs responded that this is not currently being discussed.

The Senate questioned if we are considering arming BC Public Safety.

Grubbs shared that they are currently discussing the possibly of contracting with BPD for two full time officers on the BC campus. Grubbs stated that this would be most cost effective.

The Senate questioned if the District was discussing the possibility of employees to carry a weapon if licensed with a CCW permit (current topic of discussion at the KHSD level). Grubbs responded that this is not currently being discussed. The Senate then questioned if the officers could be armed in the same way as a certified employee. Grubbs responded that Public Safety is in a different environment and they would have to qualify under California Penal Code 832, which changes their position: http://law.onelcl.com/california/penal/832.html

Grubbs announced that there is an upcoming 3-day training academy for Public Safety Officers in November.
