INTRODUCTION
Kern Community College District

Kern Community College District (KCCD) comprises three community colleges—Bakersfield College, Porterville College, and Cerro Coso Community College in Ridgecrest, California. Satellite centers in Delano, Arvin, Lake Isabella and the area near Bishop and Mammoth augment our instruction to our communities covering more than 44,000 square miles, making KCCD the largest geographic community college district in the nation. KCCD serves communities in parts of five counties including Kern, Tulare, Mono, Inyo, and San Bernardino. The mission of the Kern Community College District is to provide outstanding educational programs and services that are responsive to our diverse students and communities.

The Elements of Decision Making

Executive Summary

On a daily basis the major divisions of the District Office make many internal decisions. Some of these decisions may be in the form of a recommendation to the Chancellor for changes in District policies and/or procedures which would affect the Colleges and the District. The process for making this level of decision is described in detail in the document titled “Process of Decision Making.”

Decisions affecting internal operations must be properly vetted to ensure an effective result. To bring about this desired outcome, decision makers incorporate the participation of appropriate employees into the decision-making process. This may include employees from district departments whose work product may be affected by the decision, as well as college personnel. Information sharing and collaboration result in solid, cogent decision making.

Throughout the process of reaching decisions there is a commitment to participatory governance, i.e., involving the stakeholders as well as those who are charged with implementation of the decision at the many levels involved. Small ad hoc groups frequently meet to get some matter settled; standing committees also meet at the call of the chair to settle matters that touch many users at many levels; and through all of this the District Office follows the dictum that the Colleges must be involved in the decision making process when the decision is going to impact the Colleges.
As part of being a district-wide system, it is expected, whether operations are centralized or decentralized, that policies, procedures, laws, and regulations will be consistently applied and followed by all employees of the district.

In order to assure that the information contained in this document and the structures described remain effective and accurate, this document will be reviewed every three years by the Chancellor’s Cabinet and District Consultation Council, starting in the spring of 2014.

In the following pages the elements of decision making in the Kern Community College District are outlined.

The following documents describe the elements of decision making:

- The Process of Decision Making
- Functional Mapping for Decision Making Chart
- The “Major Responsibilities” of the chief administrative officers of the District
- Organizational Charts for each of the administrative offices of the District
- District-wide functional mapping matrix for the administrative offices of the District focusing on the issue of Centralization/Decentralization
KERN COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT

Process of Decision Making

Introduction

The Chancellor, through delegated authority of the Board of Trustees, has numerous committees, councils, and other groups who provide advice, recommendations, and/or formal proposals related to Policies and Procedures, and other decisions necessary to the operation of the District. This participatory governance structure provides the Chancellor with advice and recommendations, but it is the Chancellor who has the responsibility for deciding on the route a proposal will take, and for its final disposition. A description of this existing governance procedure follows:

1. Development of Board Policy and Procedures

   a. Existing Policies and Procedures appear in the Board Policy and Procedures Manual with dates of adoption of Policies by the Board of Trustees, and approval of Procedures by the Chancellor. These Policies and Procedures, in large measure, govern the operation of the Kern Community College District. The Chancellor’s role and responsibilities provide for wide participation in decision making. The Chancellor’s Office makes many decisions on a daily basis within the framework of decision making described in this document, and in the accompanying Functional Mapping for Decision Making Chart.

   b. Policies pertain to broad directions for the administration of the District as specified by the California Education Code, Title 5 Regulations, and other state and federal agencies. Policies are adopted by the Board of Trustees after consideration and recommendations by appropriate participatory governance groups cited in this document.

   c. Procedures pertain to the details of the administration of policies adopted by the Board of Trustees, or of Title 5 Regulations adopted by the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges. Procedures are approved by the Chancellor of the District after consideration and recommendations by appropriate participatory governance groups cited in this document.
d. Amendments to board policies and procedures, or the creation of new policies or procedures, may be originated by the Chancellor's Administrative Council, District-wide Committees, Councils of the Colleges, Academic Senates, Associated Student Organizations, and other recognized groups, as well as administrators working under the direction of the Chancellor.

e. Amendments to board policies and procedures, or the creation of new policies and procedures, originated by any of the groups or individuals noted above are referred first to the Chancellor of the District. The Chancellor may direct them for further study to existing committees of the District or the Colleges, or the Chancellor may refer these proposed amendments to the Chancellor’s Cabinet for consideration and action by that group.

2. Group Roles in Decision Making

a. Role of Chancellor’s Administrative Council in Decision Making

i. The Chancellor’s Administrative Council is chaired by the Chancellor, and includes the four Vice Chancellors all of whom report directly to the Chancellor.

ii. This Council meets regularly upon the call of the Chancellor to consider the implementation of policies and procedures, the prioritization of tasks, and problems that relate to the assignments of the Vice Chancellors. The Chancellor sets the agenda for this Council, which can be far-ranging in considering issues that relate to the administration of the District, both internal and external, and which frequently lead to decisions regarding internal issues.

iii. Issues brought to this Council by the Chancellor may be settled there, or referred to the Chancellor’s Cabinet or District-wide Committees (see subsection b, following page) for further consideration, referral, or action. With respect to important issues facing the District, the Council provides a forum for an initial examination of these matters.
b. Role of Chancellor’s Cabinet in Decision Making

i. The Chancellor’s Cabinet is the clearing house for the consideration of all proposals for creation of or amendments to Board Policies and Procedures as well as considering other issues that may require decisions. This body has a broader representation than the Chancellor’s Administrative Council including the College Presidents, the Vice Chancellors, and other District Administrators. The Cabinet, after due research and consideration makes its recommendations to the Chancellor.

ii. The Chancellor may refer the proposed changes in policy or procedures recommended by the Cabinet to the District Consultation Council for further consideration, and for recommendations from that body. The Chancellor, in the consideration of proposals takes into account whether the subject under consideration is governed by a union agreement by “reliance primarily on the advice and judgment of the Academic Senate”, or by the “obligation to reach mutual agreement” with the Academic Senate. The Board of Trustees may decide which of these two options will be used in the decision making process according to its own discretion, or as is cited in existing Board Policy.

iii. With respect to Board Policies, following District Consultation Council considerations and recommendations, the Chancellor may recommend the proposed changes to the Board of Trustees for adoption. Once adopted, these Policies are incorporated into the Board Policies and Procedures Manual.

iv. With respect to Procedures, it is the Chancellor’s responsibility to seek the advice and recommendations of the Chancellor’s Cabinet and District Consultation Council, if deemed appropriate, and to give final approval to these procedures prior to incorporation into the Board Policies and Procedures Manual.

c. Role of the District Consultation Council in Decision Making

i. The District Consultation Council is a collegial consultative body designed to serve the good of the District. The group facilitates timely, factual, and clear communication between constituents and the Chancellor as a means to help make informed District-wide decisions.
ii. The members of the Council includes the Chancellor, the Vice Chancellors, College Presidents, Academic Senate Presidents, CCA President, CSEA Presidents, Management Association representative, and student representatives from each campus.

iii. The members of the Council are the primary and most visible representative of their constituent groups. They set the standard for civility, candor, and accuracy in collegial discussion, within Council meetings and in their interactions with others in the college communities. Members are conduits of information to and from their respective groups. They should strive to understand and accept diverse points of view while attempting to reach a consensus to best serve the District as a whole.

d. Role of Academic Senates in Decision Making

i. The role of Academic Senates in the District’s decision making process is governed by Title 5, Sections 53200-53204. These Sections relate to requiring the Board of Trustees to consult “collegially” with Academic Senates in the development of Board Policies and Procedures that relate to academic and professional matters. With respect to this requirement, the Board of Trustees may use either or both of the following methods at its own discretion:

a. Relying primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate; or

b. To reach mutual agreement with the Senate by written resolution, regulation, or policy of the Board of Trustees effectuating such recommendations.

ii. The Academic Senate Presidents serve on the District Consultation Council.

iii. Title 5, Section 53200 provides the definitions that are required in implementing the relationship between academic senates and the Board of Trustees.
iv. It is through the Consultation Council that the academic senates and the administration “consult collegially” in the development of recommendations related to policies and procedures. This consultation provides time for Senates on the campuses to review the matter under consideration before a final recommendation is made to the Chancellor for Board of Trustees decision.

e. Role of District-wide Committees in Decision Making

i. There are currently fourteen (14) District-wide Committees that the Chancellor depends on for advice and recommendations in the governance process. The history, purposes, composition, and frequency of meetings of these 14 Committees are a matter of record in the Chancellor’s Office. The Chancellor designates the Chair of these Committees. Membership on the Committees is described under composition, and in all instances includes representations from the Colleges and the District.

ii. With respect to decisions having District-wide application, the District-wide Committees channel their suggestions and/or recommendations to the Chancellor for consideration and disposition.

f. Role of Collective Bargaining Agreement in Decision Making

i. Collective Bargaining agreements concluded through negotiations with the respective recognized employee groups are governed by statutes and memoranda of agreement. These agreements, once concluded, are taken to the Board of Trustees for approval. These agreements must be within the scope of collective bargaining as determined by State statutes, and once adopted by the Board of Trustees are binding as they relate to conditions of work.

3. Summary

a. The participatory governance commitment is reflected in the decision making process described above.

b. The Chancellor of the Kern Community College District participates actively in the decision making process described above, and in doing so is fully conversant with the recommendations that are forwarded to the Chancellor level for decisions to be made in a timely manner.
c. There is wide participation District-wide in the collegial consultation process and the process provides adequate time for referral to participating groups and for their study and recommendations.

d. Adequate documentation at the various levels provides a paper/electronic trail of recommendations that move to the Chancellor level, and with respect to policy to the Board of Trustees for approval.
The decision-making charts for each College are included at the end of this document.
