

1. Whoever is placed in the position of justice is going to have to be someone you can count on making the right and moral decision on the rules that have been placed. With that being said, I feel like I would be an excellent fit for this position. Also, having a voice in the student body is something that interests me greatly because of how important it is to be heard, especially when you strive on bettering the school your governing the best to your abilities. Vote for me and I assure you to put all of this into work!
2. I have had a number of leader positions in the past, and over the years through successful and unsuccessful positions, I have learned every time on what it takes to be a good leader. I've learned to listen to the people and to always put yourself in their position. With ruling involved in this position, I believe this is essential. I also consider everything of any conflict. I also put in my all into anything I put myself into because I don't believe in only giving it a semi-try. If I start something, I want to see it all the way through.
3. Bakersfield College needs a student government because the students of BC need/should have the ability to represent themselves. They are going to be the ones to make the most reasonable and responsive decisions for the students. Because who knows the students better than the students themselves?
